In re: WT Docket No. 03-66, Amendment of Parts 1, 21, 73, 74 and 101 of the Commission's Rules to Facilitate the Provision of Fixed and Mobile
Broadband Access, Educational and Other Advanced Services in the 2150-
2162 and 2500-2690 MHz Bands

Dear Ms. Dortch:

On behalf of the Archdiocese of New York ("Archdiocese"), I am submitting these comments in response to two questions posed in the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking ("NPRM") in the above-referenced proceeding. First, paragraph 54 of the NPRM asks for comment on the new bandplan proposed jointly by the Wireless Communications Association International, the National ITFS Association and the Catholic Television Network (the "MDS/ITFS Coalition"). The Archdiocese fully supports the bandplan proposed by the MDS/ITFS Coalition. The bandplan was the result of extensive study, deliberation, and analysis. The Archdiocese believes that the MDS/ITFS Coalition bandplan will satisfy everyone's goals while continuing to provide for high power services that have made the use of ITFS such an important educational tool.

The second issue the Archdiocese wishes to address is the proposal in paragraph 55 of the NPRM to adopt an across-the-board reduction in signal strength in the MDS/ITFS band. On a related issue, paragraph 57 asks ITFS licensees to describe their current ITFS operations, their future plans for use of ITFS spectrum, and the extent to which an across-the-board power reduction, if adopted, would disrupt existing high-power operations. For the reasons discussed below, the Archdiocese is opposed to an across-the-board power reduction in the MDS/ITFS band.

The Archdiocese is comprised of three of New York's five boroughs and seven upstate counties, covering 4,700 square miles. It is both one of the largest urban dioceses and one of the largest rural dioceses of the Catholic Church in the United States. As Director, I am responsible for supporting, through ITFS and educational technology, both the educational and religious needs of this diverse population. There are 291 schools in the Archdiocese of New York, with a total enrollment of approximately 113,000 students.

For 37 years the Archdiocese has been using ITFS frequencies to deliver instructional programming to its schools. Currently, we provide instructional programming to nearly 47,000 students in more than 100 schools of the 10-county area that makes up the Archdiocese of New York. Course offerings have increased from 53 series in 1969 to more than 150 today (see Attachment A). Courses are offered each year at the elementary, secondary, in-service training and adult education levels. School programming follows the New York State curriculum in order to provide teachers an easy way to integrate ITFS programming into their daily lessons. One channel is reserved for "Dial-A-Lesson," which allows teachers to arrange for a particular program to be aired on the date and time of their choice. This feature has created a form of interactivity that further helps teachers plan their lessons and coordinate them with the ITFS program of their choice at the most suitable time.

ITFS also provides our students with hands-on experience. Elementary and secondary schools students gain experience in television broadcast and journalism by producing the weekly "News and Views" program during the school year. This educational opportunity has been profiled in several newspapers (See Attachment B). In addition, our ITFS program serves higher education by allowing students from several area colleges and universities serve as interns at our production facilities. Our facilities include two fully equipped studios, computerized editing suites, and extensive field production capability.

As the role of ITFS in our schools has grown, so have expenses, and the ability of the schools to bear the full cost of such service has not kept pace. The expenses of running our ITFS program amounts to nearly one million dollars per year. For that reason, the Archdiocese welcomed the opportunity to make alliances with commercial partners that have produced important revenue for the instructional television system. Furthermore, with the adoption of new rules as proposed by the MDS/ITFS Coalition, we are expecting to bring our schools high-speed wireless Internet access and other interactive educational opportunities.

The importance of the enhanced ITFS system will continue to grow as the Archdiocese struggles with the financial realities facing it. A major reorganization of the Archdiocese is to be initiated this fall. This will include the consolidation of parishes and in many instances schools to reduce costs. ITFS can help the Archdiocese reduce the unit cost of education. But this will be possible only if the Archdiocese can develop the commercial partnerships that will produce both needed revenue and access to new technologies that otherwise would be too expensive for the Archdiocese to acquire on its own.

Our vision of an education technology system to serve the Archdiocese for the foreseeable future includes both traditional one-way video from high-power transmitters and two-way, interactive learning experience provided via wireless high-speed Internet access. The geographic reality of the Archdiocese is such that only through a combination of technologies can we adequately serve students. Our existing transmitter network was designed to reach the maximum number of schools sited in both an extremely cluttered urban setting (Manhattan) as well as widely scattered rural schools in areas such as Orange and Ulster counties. In both instances, a low-power, cellular system will be extremely costly and feasible only working with a commercial partner.

The Archdiocese would be very concerned with adoption of any proposal that would require all licensees in the MDS/ITFS band to reduce their power so that the entire band could be used for low power cellularized services. It would not be practical or economically feasible for the Archdiocese to convert its existing high site, high power video operations to cellular network technology.

If the Commission were to adopt its alternative low power proposal, ITFS stations nationwide would, in all probability, be forced to cease service. Those most affected by such a shutdown would be the millions of students who depend on ITFS services as part of their core curriculum. The Archdiocese believes strongly that the continuing success of both MDS and ITFS services depend on the adoption of rules and policies as proposed by the MDS/ITFS Coalition.

Very truly yours,

Dear Colleagues in Catholic Education:

We are so fortunate in this wonderful Archdiocese to have ITV as one of our major educational resources. I know we are the envy of many dioceses because of this very fine and innovative facility.

You are faced with many challenges today in your schools and classrooms. Principals speak to teachers about meeting the needs of all the students in our heterogeneous classrooms. We know how difficult it is to accommodate all the learning styles of our children; so you have to adapt your learning styles. ITV has met the various needs of the students in our schools for many years. You who take your teaching responsibility very seriously have found that the format and content offered every year in this Broadcast Schedule enables you to broaden and enrich the classroom curricula.

Many thanks to Michael Lavery, the Administrative Director of ITV, and his fine staff for continuing to bring the world to us through the channels of Instructional Television.

Sincerely,

Dr. Catherine Hickey
Superintendent of Schools

Fall, 2003

Archdiocese of New York

Dear Teacher:

Welcome back! We hope the summer was a good one for you and that it recharged your batteries to again face a roomful of smiling faces and eager young minds.

Again it is our honor to offer the resources of ITV to assist you in your most important task. We have carefully selected programs to match your efforts in the classroom.

Please take a few moments at the beginning of the school year to look through this year's Broadcast Schedule. You'll find exciting new programs in Social Studies, Reading and Literature, Art and Drug Use Prevention. Many of your old favorites are back, too.

Don't forget about our seasonal specials. They can help you and your class prepare for and observe holidays like Columbus Day and Presidents' Day, and sacred seasons like Christmas and Easter. We'll remind you of these and other special programs via e-mail throughout the year. We send the e-mail to your principal. But if you have a personal e-mail address you'd like us to use, please contact us at admin@itvny.org.

Please check our web site, www.itvny.org at least once a month. We update this resource regularly with many helpful links related to your work and our programs.

And don't forget Dial-A-Lesson, which lets you be your own program director. Details are elsewhere in this book.

Have a great year.

Sincerely,

Michael Lavery
Administrative Director

INSTRUCTIONAL TELEVISION SERVICES

FOCUS ON ITV

Each month or so, ITV's Program Director sends out a newsletter, FOCUS ON ITV. It is sent via E-mail. Information about new series, special and seasonal programming, in-service programs for faculty, evaluation forms, and surveys, are included in these newsletters. We ask the Principal or ITV Coordinator to copy and distribute FOCUS ON ITV to the faculty.

ITV Coordinator in Every School

It is important for each school to have an ITV Coordinator, someone whom ITV can contact if we need to give information to teachers or if we need feedback from teachers. The ITV Coordinator is responsible for disseminating notices from ITV to the faculty (e.g. FOCUS ON ITV, evaluation forms, seasonal schedules). It is not a taxing or difficult job, but a necessary one.

Seasonal and Special Programs

Prior to Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter, regular programming is interrupted for a special schedule of holiday features. Program notes and a daily schedule will be distributed to each school.

News and Views

Weekly information programs, reported and scripted by student newscasters from elementary and secondary schools, are videotaped at ITV's television studios. At the end of each school year, News and Views culminates with the "Eddy Awards". Professional news personalities from the New York area present the Eddy statuette to winning students and teams for outstanding achievements in broadcast journalism. See page 132 for more information.

Teacher Guides

A discussion guide for many series is available from ITV. The guides give detailed content descriptions for each individual lesson in a series and suggest activities for teachers and students to do before and after viewing. Wherever possible, coordinate your textbook lessons with ITV lessons. A listing of the Teacher Guides is on the last page of this Broadcast Schedule. Ask your Principal for an order form or call ITV and we will send one to you.

USING ITV PROGRAMS

This Broadcast Schedule contains a listing of all television programming for the current year. It is hoped that you will make it an integral part of your classroom instruction. The programs are designed to heighten the learning process of the TV generation you teach.

The TV lesson should not stand alone. Research suggests that ITV is most effective when used as a resource which is part of the entire classroom lesson. Surveys indicate that students are more engaged and learn more when video is integrated into the lesson.

The following tips will help you use these programs to the best advantage, resulting in an enjoyable, as well as true, learning experience.

Teacher Preparation

Consult the Subject Area - Grade Index for the names of series and programs suited to your curriculum needs. Be mindful that many series have interdisciplinary uses. As always, you the teacher know best what material is appropriate for your class. If you are unsure if your class is too young or old for a particular series, call ITV to schedule a preview of a lesson. You can watch the program before you share it with your class.

Read the overall description of the series found near the top of the page for the series. Teacher Guides are available through ITV for most of the series you will use. The guides give detailed content descriptions for each individual lesson and suggest activities to use before and after viewing. See the last page for a complete listing of Teacher Guides.

Coordinate your textbook lessons and ITV lessons wherever possible by reading lesson descriptions and checking the scheduled dates for each program.

In the Classroom

Prepare your class by focusing students' attention on concepts and facts to be learned.

Create interest by showing an object or picture or by raising questions related to the topic of the program. The Teacher Guide will be helpful here because the guides will tell you in advance the content of the program. Also, some guides list words which will be discussed in the program. Why not write these on the blackboard so your class will know what to listen for?

Watch the program with the class. Make comments during the program to keep students focused on the issues. Older children can take notes. Students are more likely to pay attention when they know their teacher is watching along with them.

After the Program

Reinforce what the class has learned. Start discussions, answer questions, relate the new facts from the program to information that students have already learned in class. Use some of the follow-up activities suggested in the Teacher Guide.

Encourage short and long term projects. Some teachers give vocabulary tests on words learned in ITV lessons. Others ask students to write essays on what they have seen. Another idea is to simply tell the class that facts from ITV lessons will be on tests just as facts learned from textbooks are. Provide the appropriate feedback. Immediate feedback is the best way to assure retentive learning.

DIAL-A-LESSON

ITV has developed a method for offering programming at times most convenient for the teacher. We call this method - DIAL-A-LESSON. Except for approximately three hours per day, ITV reserves Channel 12 for you! The flexibility of our three channel system allows scheduling of programs by request in addition to the regular schedule. Dial-A-Lesson may be used between 8:30 AM and 4:00 PM on Monday through Friday.

Programs are usually scheduled several days each week at different times of the day. We understand that even with these convenient schedules, there is no guarantee that you will be teaching a topic the week it is scheduled. That's why there is DIAL-A-LESSON. Any program in this entire Broadcast Schedule can be scheduled by YOU at any time you prefer. There is no charge for this service.

The Procedure for DIAL-A-LESSON

Call the ITV Center [(914) 968-7800], ask for DIAL-A-LESSON, and give the following information.

1. Desired day and time
2. Have an alternate day and time in mind (DIAL-A-LESSON is very popular and we receive many requests per day, therefore the first date and time you have chosen may have already been requested by another teacher).
3. Series title
4. Program title
5. Your school name
6. Your name

We encourage you to call a few days in advance of the day and time you would like to have the program shown. Please limit requests to one or two lessons per day to allow others to use DIAL-A-LESSON.

RECORDING OFF-AIR

Any program in this Broadcast Schedule may be recorded "off-air" for subsequent use in the classroom. It should be understood that you may keep these tapes until the end of the current school year. If you wish to keep a tape after June, please call the Program Director at ITV to find out about copyright laws, and the status of our lease with the individual program distributor. Some distributors of ITV programs require payment of a fee from schools to retain programs on tape.

*PLEASE ERASE ANY PROGRAMS FROM THE FOLLOWING SERIES IF YOU COPIED THEM: PASSPORT TO WEATHER AND CLIMATE, SCIENCE CONCEPTS IN CONTEXT, AMERICAN DESERTS AND THE CARROT HIGHWAY.

MONDAY	TUESDAY	WEDNESDAY	THURSDAY	FRIDAY
-----	9:30 CH 8	9:45 CH 8	1:30 CH 8	10:30 CH 8

This series reflects the new emphasis in teaching reading comprehension suggested by the research literature. First and foremost, the programs reinforce the idea that reading must make sense. Students are directed to stop reading when they don't understand and try to figure out where problems lie and how to solve them. The series helps teach students what these strategies are and how to apply them in reading; why they make sense and when they might prove to be effective in learning and remembering information.

30-Minute Lessons

The Beginning Is in the End

This program examines how civilizations began in China, India, Egypt, and Central America, but concentrates mostly on Sumer, a region of Mesopotamia near the meeting of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers. The basic human need for food, security, and creativity are shown to have shaped the pattern of growth of ancient societies.

Balancing the Budget

The discovery of agriculture and the subsequent domestication of animals gradually led to economies based on trade. This evolution is examined in detail in Egypt. The Minoans and Phoenicians, both great traders, are also studied.

Safekeeping

This study of ancient systems of security reveals how these systems evolved into sophisticated governments and codes of law. Athens and Sparta are contrasted, and the Etruscans and republican Rome are also examined.

On the Town

The peak periods of ancient civilizations in Greece, India, China, and Central America were filled with remarkable achievements. Past accomplishments in art, medicine, architecture, literature, and philosophy are shown to have had a great impact on the shaping of the modern world.

Legacies

Ancient Rome provides a powerful example in this study of how the past laid the groundwork for many brilliant developments in the Western world today. Second only to the Greeks, who left a wealth of innovations, ancient Romans invented little but excelled at borrowing ideas from Greece and refining them.

The End Is The Beginning

This study of the decline and fall of civilizations focuses on ancient societies in India, Greece, Egypt, Italy, and Central America. The main reason for collapse was the inability of societies to adapt to political and environmental changes that they had precipitated.

Professional newscasters from the New York area television stations present the "Eddy" statuettes in recognition of outstanding achievement in broadcast journalism. REPAIR SERVICE

SERVICE CONTRACTS: ITV offers a service contract covering the antenna and head end equipment with options to include other parts of the system including individual TV sets. Information on the service contract is sent to principals at the beginning of each year. Contracts must be paid for by October. Schools without a service contract will be charged for parts and an hourly rate for labor.

TO GET REPAIR SERVICE: If you are getting poor reception and cannot correct the problem yourself by making adjustments to the set, call ITV at (914) 968-7800. Tell us the name of your school, the address and telephone number and your name. Briefly describe the problem. We will schedule a service call.

THE SERVICE CALL: We will notify your school the day our technician will respond to the call for service, and the approximate time of the technician's arrival. Please have someone who is familiar with the problem available to meet the technician. That person should also know the location of, and have access to, the head end (antenna amplifier cabinet) and the roof. Please make sure to give the technician a complete list of the problems so repeated visits are not necessary. Also, please make sure the principal or other authority is informed of the service visit.

When the work is completed, the technician will ask a school representative to sign the service call form.

If, by chance, your problem corrects itself prior to the scheduled service call, please let us know so we can cancel the call and save ourselves an unnecessary trip.

There are a couple of common problems which you can easily correct and save the ITV technician a trip.

No picture in one classroom only: Is the television set plugged into both the AC outlet and the special ITV outlet? Is the connecting pin on the antenna cable straight and unbroken? Is the power outlet in the room working?

No picture anywhere in the building: Locate the main power output box (Head End System) in your school. Is the main power switch on for the Head End (amplifier system)? Are the amplifiers plugged in and connected to ITV?

Please note:

Some schools use the staircase light circuit to supply AC power to the head end box. If there is no picture in the building, check if the staircase lights are turned on. This problem usually occurs at the beginning of the school year, or after a long recess as some turn the lights off to save electricity.

Students who work on ITV's 'News and Views' shows pick up Eddy Awards

By CLAUDIA McDONNELL

It's not as big as the Oscars or as filled with celebrities as the Emmys, but for the nominees and everyone else who's involved, it's just as exciting. Maybe more so, especially this year.

The 30th annual Eddy Awards at Instructional Television in Yonkers celebrated the achievements of students in the archdiocese who participate in ITV's "News and Views" series. The ceremony takes place in the ITV studios on the campus of St. Joseph's Seminary in Dunwoodie.

Attending were students from the 15 elementary and six high schools that were nominated for an award, with their moderators and several principals. Also attending were archdiocesan officials and five New York broadcast journalists who presented the awards, including Nick Gregory, meteorologist on WNYW-TV, a frequent presenter, who won an Eddy as a student at Iona Prep.

Michael Lavery, ITV's administrative director, welcomed participants and noted some of the changes in television technology; 30 years ago, the Eddys and News and Views were in black and white, he noted. But he stressed that at least one thing remains constant.

"It's all about telling the story," he said, "and what we honor here today are outstanding skills in storytelling." He congratulated the students and told them, "You've all done great work."

The students also won praise from the broadcasters who presented the awards. Cindy Hsu, an anchor at WCBS-TV, commended the kids for the topics they chose and said that she and the other broadcasters were going to bring the ideas back to their own newsrooms.

"They're that good," she said. Topics included hunger, youth crime, child abduction, the dangers of teenage driving and the effects of television on society. Students choose the topics, guided by moderators.

Marvin Scott of WB-11 noted that the series gives students valuable experience. "I congratulate the archdiocese for this program and for 30 years of providing this support and encouragement to young people...I wish I had something like this when I began in the news business," he said. He told the kids: "The best reward of all is the one you hold inside: knowing that you successfully communicated a story."

The other presenters were Janib Abreu of WABC-TV and Jonathan Dienst of WNBC-TV.

Winners of the Moderator of the Year Award were Lucy Tucker of Maria Regina High School in Hartsdale and Doris Gibbons of Notre Dame Academy elementary school on Staten Island.

The Eddys were awarded both to elementary and secondary school students in 10 categories: survey, photo essay, feature, research, graphics, interview, debate, editorial, anchor person and news team. The students gave acceptance speeches in which they thanked their principals, moderators and fellow team members.

In the high school division, the School of the Holy Child in Rye picked up six awards: in photo essay (Lindsey Powers), interview (Carolyn Plunkett), graphics and news team categories; in debate (Meghan McHugh, Carolyn Mangano) in a tie with Maria Regina (Jennifer Dorsey, Nicole Welge), and in anchor person (Megan Manfred, Victoria Marchewka) in a tie with St. Joseph by-the-Sea on Staten Island (Julie Gambardella).

The other high school winners, from the Bronx, were Cardinal Spellman for survey (Claire McCarrick, Annie Allen) and Preston for feature (Gina Gentile), editorial (Antonella Iannarino) and research.

In the elementary school division, St. Ann's on Staten Island won for survey (Margaret Corcoran), graphics and news team; St. John the Baptist in Yonkers for photo essay (Briana Franck) and research; Visitation in the Bronx for feature (Olivia Claudio); Notre Dame Academy for interview (Celine McConeghy and Kelley Rocco) and editorial (Karen Cilento and Marisela Sigona); Our Lady of Perpetual Help in Pelham Manor for debate (Michael Scholven and Nicholas Baldaino), and St. Matthew's in Hastings-on-Hudson for anchor person (Drew Schuyler).

Auxiliary Bishop William J. McCormack, retired national director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, presented the award for best news team. He summed up the youngsters' economy of words with the comment: "Nothing succeeds like succinct."

Dr. Catherine T. Hickey, secretary for education/superintendent of schools, told the students that all of them are winners.

"We have no doubt that in your future, you will continue to carry with you what you have learned both in our schools and from your parents...the goodness of who you are, and the goodness of what you can do for the world," she said.

The students were enthusiastic about "News and Views." Ms. Marchewka of Holy Child told CNY that students draw on current events for topics.

"That helps make us aware of what's going on," she said.

"It's so rewarding," said her team member Ms. Plunkett. "You put all the effort in, and even the nomination is such a great award."

Lavery, administrative director for 12 years, told CNY that "News and Views" offers ITV its most direct contact with students.

"This is one of the most rewarding things we do here," he said.

Lavery and Roland Chapdelaine, the producer of "News and Views," both credited the students with making the series a success.

"All we really do is aim the cameras at them," Chapdelaine said. "They're the ones that do all the work, and it's phenomenal." Chapdelaine noted that several years ago, before the attacks of Sept. 11, 2001, Holy Child's ITV team did a show about women in Afghanistan. After the attacks, "two news stations, Channel 9 and Channel 2, called me and wanted copies of that show for research they were doing on the topic," he said. Apparently, an Eddy presenter spread the word about the students' work.

ONE PRO TO ANOTHER—Cindy Hsu, WCBS-TV anchor, presents Eddy Award for best feature in the high school division to Gina Gentile of Preston in the Bronx. Preston also won in the editorial and research categories.

Island schools earn journalism awards

New York Archdiocese honors student broadcast
news presentations

BY MATT SOLLETT
STATEN ISLAND ADVANCE

Students from three Staten Island schools won recognition yesterday at the 30th Annual Eddy Awards Program in Yonkers.

The Eddy awards (short for "education") honor New York Archdiocesan school students for excellence in broadcast journalism.

All of the nominees prepared and produced a weekly television program called "News and Views," a 15-minute news show designed to reflect the opinions, research and journalistic abilities of the student reporters.

The show is telecast over ITV, the New York Archdiocese instructional television service, and it is produced at the ITV studios in Yonkers.

The Eddy winners were selected from among 339 student broadcasters from 15 elementary and six high schools in the Archdiocese.

St. Ann's Parish Elementary School, Dongan Hills, won three awards, including Best Elementary News Team and Best Elementary Graphics for its show, "TV or Not TV: The Effects of TV on Society."

The show explored the opinions of adults and adolescents concerning television programming and its effects on society.

Margaret Corcoran of St. Ann's won the Eddy for Best Elementary Survey.

Notre Dame Academy, Grymes Hill, also won several awards for its show "Bullying." Celine McConeghy and Kelley Rocco of Notre Dame Academy won for Best Elementary Interview and Karen Cilento and Marisela Sigona won for Best Elementary Editorial. Doris Gibbons of Notre Dame Academy was honored as Team Moderator of the year.

Amanda Gaal, Katherine Druback and Stephanie Druback of Notre Dame Academy, and Christina Angeli, Michael DiMare, Rinda Cardozo, Steven Armato and Rence Basile of St. Ann's were also nominated for elementary awards.

On the high school level, Julie Gambardella of St. Joseph by-the-Sea High School, Huguenot, won for Best High School Anchorperson for the show "Free Women, Free World!" She won an Eddy in 2002 for Best Editorial.

Jennifer Ruvalo, Anthony Noto, Phyllis Siracusa and Kristen Dalto of St. Joseph by-the-Sea were also nominated.

Students from both high schools and elementary schools competed for honors in 10 different categories.

Seven of the categories recognize individual accomplishment (survey, photo essay, feature, interview, debate, editorial and anchorperson), while the other three (research, graphics and news team) are group awards.

Eddy Awards Ceremony Honors Student Newscasters

Student broadcasters from 21 schools in the archdiocese have been nominated for this year's Eddy Awards. Winners will be announced at the ITV Studios in Yonkers during the 30th annual awards program, to be telecast live on Friday, May 23, at 11 a.m.

The "Eddy" (short for "education") trophies will be presented to students to honor their work in producing the weekly television program, "News and Views." Elementary and high school students compete for honors in 10 categories of broadcast journalism. Seven categories recognize individual accomplishment (survey, photo essay, feature, interview, debate, editorial and anchorperson), while three (research, graphics and news team) are awarded on a team basis.

Present to honor the student broadcasters will be Auxiliary Bishop William J. McCormack, retired as national director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, and Dr. Catherine T. Hickey, secretary of education and superintendent of schools in the archdiocese. ITV administrative director Michael Lavery will be the master of ceremonies.

This year's award presenters include Cindy Hsu of WCBS-TV, Ch. 2, and Nick Gregory of WNYW-TV, Ch. 5, who won an Eddy Award during his high school days at Iona Prep in New Rochelle.

The Eddy Awards Program will be telecast live over ITV's three channels serving more than 100 archdiocesan Catholic schools. It will also air live on Ch. 31 in the Bronx and Ch. 31 in Yonkers. The program will be re-broadcast beginning at 8 p.m. on both channels.

The Eddy Award honorees were chosen from among 339 student broadcasters from 15 elementary and six high schools who produced their own "News and Views" programs this year.
